The Higher Learning Commission's Federal Compliance Program: A Guide for Institutions and Evaluation Teams

Effective for visits beginning January 1, 2013

This document outlines the Commission's requirements to ensure that its affiliated institutions comply with federal regulations. It identifies applicable Commission policies and an explanation of each requirement. The Federal Compliance Program packet includes separate guidance for institutions in documenting compliance with the requirements and for evaluation teams in documenting whether the requirements are met.

Introduction

The Higher Learning Commission is required by the U.S. Department of Education to assure that all its member institutions are complying with the expectations of specific regulations accreditors must enforce as a part of their federal recognition. In addition, the Commission is required to review the institution's compliance with its Title IV program responsibilities. Compliance with these requirements by both institutions and the Commission is necessary to ensure that institutions accredited by the Commission are eligible for federal financial aid.

The Higher Education Opportunity Act of 2008 increased the number of statutory requirements that the Commission must ensure its accredited institutions fulfill. Further, the Department of Education continues to define and to implement these requirements through regulations effective July 1, 2010, and additional regulations effective July 1, 2011. In addition, Commission policy regarding federal compliance requirements for institutions was revised in June 2012 to make clear that institutions must meet these requirements in order to be accredited by the Commission. This document reflects those changes.

Expectations for Institutions and Peer Reviewers

The Higher Learning Commission's Federal Compliance Program follows a three-step process:

- First, institutions must address the federal requirements in the materials they submit to the Commission before a visit. "Federal Compliance Filing by Institutions" provides guidance to institutions in addressing these requirements. Applying institutions and PEAQ institutions address the Federal Compliance requirements in the self-study before the comprehensive evaluation visit. AQIP institutions address the requirements in the materials prepared for Quality Checkup Visits.

Institutions participating in the Open or Standard Pathway can upload information relevant to Federal Compliance Requirements to the Assurance System once they gain access to that system. Institutions participating in the Open Pathway must demonstrate that they meet the Federal Compliance Requirements during the Year 10 comprehensive evaluation. Institutions participating in the Standard Pathway must demonstrate that they meet the Federal Compliance Requirements in the Year 4 and Year 10 comprehensive evaluations.

Peer reviewers should study the requirements and submitted materials before the visit to determine whether there are any areas of concern.

- Second, the Commission expects that institutions make Federal Compliance additional supporting information available in the Resource Room during the visit (or in the Assurance System). While conducting the visit, peer reviewers should verify that the Federal Compliance information they received is accurate and complete. They should raise any questions they have with institutional representatives.
- Third, peer reviewers document that they have conducted a thorough review of the institution's compliance with federal requirements using the "Federal Compliance Worksheet for Evaluation Teams."

Assignment of Credits, Program Length, and Tuition

Commission Policy FDCR.A.10.020 – Assignment of Credits, Program Length, and Tuition

An institution shall be able to equate its learning experiences with semester or quarter credit hours using practices common to institutions of higher education, to justify the lengths of its programs in comparison to similar programs found in accredited institutions of higher education, and to justify any program-specific tuition in terms of program costs, program length, and program objectives. Affiliated institutions shall notify the Commission of any significant changes in the relationships among credits, program length, and tuition.

Assignment of Credit Hours. The institution's assignment and award of credit hours shall conform to commonly accepted practices in higher education. Those institutions seeking, or participating in, Title IV federal financial aid, shall demonstrate that they have policies determining the credit hours awarded to courses and programs in keeping with commonly-accepted practices and with the federal definition of the credit hour, as reproduced herein for reference only, and that institutions also have procedures that result in an appropriate awarding of institutional credit in conformity with the policies established by the institution.

Federal Credit Hour Definition: A credit hour is an amount of work represented in intended learning outcomes and verified by evidence of student achievement that is an institutionally-established equivalency that reasonably approximates not less than:

(1) one hour of classroom or direct faculty instruction and a minimum of two hours of out-of-class student work each week for approximately fifteen weeks for one semester or trimester hour of credit, or ten to twelve weeks for one quarter hour of credit, or the equivalent amount of work over a different amount of time; or (2) at least an equivalent amount of work as required in paragraph (1) of this definition for other activities as established by an institution, including laboratory work, internships, practica, studio work, and other academic work leading toward to the award of credit hours. 34CFR 600.2 (11/1/2010)

Commission Review. The Commission shall review the assignment of credit hours, program length, and tuition in conjunction with a comprehensive evaluation for reaffirmation of accreditation during the Commission's assurance process. The Commission may sample or use other techniques to review specific institutional programs ensure that it has reviewed reliability and accuracy of the institution's assignment of credit. The Commission shall monitor, through its established monitoring processes, the resolution of any concerns identified during that evaluation with regard to the awarding of academic credit, program length, or tuition, and shall require that an institution remedy any deficiency in this regard by a date certain but not to exceed two years from the date of the action identifying the deficiency.

Commission Action for Systematic Noncompliance. In addition to taking appropriate action related to the institution's compliance with the Federal Compliance Requirements, the Commission shall notify the Secretary of Education if, following any review process identified above or through any other mechanism, the Commission finds systematic noncompliance with the Commission's policies in this section regarding the awarding of academic credit.

The Commission shall understand systematic noncompliance to mean that an institution lacks policies to determine the appropriate awarding of academic credit or that there is an awarding by an institution of institutional credit across multiple programs or divisions or affecting significant numbers of students not in conformity with the policies established by the institution or with commonly accepted practices in higher education.

Explanation of this Requirement

The Commission's intent is (1) to review an institution's policies regarding the award of credit; (2) to determine whether the institution follows those policies in practice; and (3) to determine whether the allocation of credit by the institution is in keeping with the federal definition of the credit hour and whether an institution with courses in alternative formats has and follows policies that are consistent with commonly-accepted practice in higher education.

Institutions should make sure that they have a policy at the institutional or department level that explains how credit hours are allocated to courses and programs. The policy should be in writing and take into account the federal definition of the credit hour as well as commonly accepted practice in higher education. Such policies are typically expected to distinguish the various levels of learning that the institution offers, such as graduate and undergraduate, and may distinguish among departments or disciplines. The policies should take into account such matters as practica, clinical rotations, compressed terms, and distance delivery.

Institutions with fairly standard semester or quarter systems and credit hour allocations are likely to find that looking at the institution's policy on credit hours, its catalog, and sample syllabi is the easiest approach to documenting compliance. However, institutions that provide instruction through on-line, alternative, compressed, or other formats should have policies that expressly address how that learning is determined, organized, and evaluated and how the institution goes about determining instructional equivalencies. Such institutions should consider incorporating learning objectives and actual student outcomes in allocating credit hour values.

The institution should be able to demonstrate that it assigns credit hours to courses in a reasonable and systematic way, taking into consideration the instructional time provided to students and typically in the semester/trimester hour or quarter hour format following an institutional policy. Degree programs should have overall credit hour requirements. These credit hour assignments and degree program requirements should fit within the range of good practice currently in higher education in the United States.

In addition, the institution should set tuition consistently across degree programs. If tuition differs for a particular program or programs, the institution should be able to justify that difference based on costs for offering that degree, the length of the program, or the objectives of the program.

Should the institution plan to make any significant change to credit hour assignments or degree program requirements, the institution is required to seek Commission approval prior to making those changes. The institution should review the Change in Clock or Credit Hour application on the Commission's web site for more information.

Institutional Records of Student Complaints

Each institution shall determine its own policies and procedures for accepting transfer credits, including credits from accredited and non-accredited institutions, from foreign institutions, and from institutions which grant credit for experiential learning and for non-traditional adult learner programs in conformity with any expectations in the Commission’s Assumed Practices. An institution’s periodic review of its transfer policies and procedures should include evaluation of their clarity to those who administer them, to the students who follow them, and to employers and other stakeholders. It should also include the consistency of their interpretation and application throughout the institution, as well as their responsiveness to new types of learning opportunities outside institutions of higher education.

In addition, its transfer policies must also meet the requirements for the description of transfer policies outlined in 34 CFR §668.43(a)(11), which is reproduced here for reference.

(11) A description of the transfer of credit policies established by the institution which must include a statement of the institution's current transfer of credit policies that includes, at a minimum—

Commission Policy FDCR.A.10.050 – Practices for Verification of Student Identity

An institution offering distance education or correspondence education, as specified in the federal definitions reproduced herein solely for reference, shall have processes through which the institution establishes that the student who registers in the distance education or correspondence education courses or programs is the same student who participates in and completes and receives the academic credit.

Definitions:

Distance education/course means education that uses one or more of the {following} technologies (i) to deliver instruction to students who are separated from the instructor; and (ii) to support regular and substantive interaction between the students and the instructor, synchronously or asynchronously. The technologies used may include: (i) the internet; (ii) one way and two way transmissions through open broadcast, closed circuit, cable, microwave, broadband lines, fiber optics, satellite, or wireless communications devices; (iii) audioconferencing; or (iv) videocassettes, DVDs, and CD-Roms, if the videocassettes, DVDs or CDROMs are used in conjunction with any of the technologies listed in clauses (i) through (iii).

Correspondence education/course means: (1) Education provided through one or more courses by an institution under which the institution provides instructional materials, by mail or electronic transmission, including examinations on the materials, to students who are separated from the instructor. (2) Interaction between the instructor and the student is not regular and substantive, and is primarily initiated by the student. (3) Correspondence courses are typically self-paced. (4) Correspondence education is not distance education. 34CFR 602.3 (11/1/2010)

Institutional Practices. In verifying the identify of students who participate in class or coursework the institution may make use of a variety of methods at the option of the institution, including but not limited to: (1) secure login and pass code; (2) proctored examinations; and (3) new or other technologies and practices that are effective in verifying the identity of students. Such methods must have reasonable and appropriate safeguards to protect student privacy. Institutions must notify students at the time of registration or enrollment of any projected additional student charges associated with the verification of student identity such as separate fees charged by proctoring services, etc.

Commission Review. The Commission will review an institution's student identity verification protocols when an institution requests permission to add programs in distance delivery as well as during a comprehensive evaluation. The Commission will also require that institutions submit information about student identity verification protocols on the Commission's Institutional Update.

Explanation of this Requirement

Institutions must verify the identity of students who participate in courses or programs provided through distance or correspondence education. The institution may use a variety of approaches to verify student identity, which may include (1) secure login and pass code; (2) proctored examinations; and (3) new or other technologies and practices that are effective in verifying the identity of students. Additionally, if the method by which the institution verifies student identity will incur a cost to the student (such as a fee for a proctored exam) the institution must disclose that cost to the student at the time of registration or enrollment. The institution must also demonstrate that it is making reasonable efforts to protect student privacy in verifying student identity. Note that the definitions of distance and correspondence education for the purpose of verifying student identity are the federal definitions and are quoted in the Commission policy for reference.

Standing with State and Other Accrediting Agencies

Commission Policy FDCR.A.10.090 – Standing with State and Other Accrediting Agencies

An institution has a responsibility to remain in good standing with each state in which it is authorized or licensed as well as with any other institutional or programmatic accrediting agency recognized by the U.S. Department of Education by which it is accredited or pre-accredited up to the point that it voluntarily withdraws from such relationships. An institution shall fairly represent to the Commission and to the public its history or current or previous status with other institutional or programmatic accrediting bodies and with each state in which it is authorized or licensed.

An institution shall disclose to the Commission any pending or final state actions that affects the institution's legal status or authority to grant degrees or offer programs and any pending or final actions by an accrediting agency to withdraw accredited or pre-accredited status, impose a sanction or deny an application for such status. Such disclosure shall take place at the time of the action by the other entity and on the Commission's Institutional Update as well as in preparation for a comprehensive evaluation by the Commission.

Commission Review. If another such accrediting agency or if a state has taken any of these actions, the Commission will undertake a prompt review of the institution and the related action.

With regard to an applying institution, the Commission, through its decision-making processes and subject to the limitations in the Eligibility Requirements, will carefully weigh these matters in reaching its own decision to grant candidacy or accreditation. If it chooses to grant candidacy or initial accreditation to such an institution, it will provide the Secretary of Education a written explanation of why that action is appropriate within thirty days of taking the action.

Public Notification of Opportunity to Comment

Commission Policy FDCR.A.10.070 – Public Information: Public Notification of Opportunity to Comment

The Commission shall seek comment from third parties about institutions being evaluated for accreditation or candidacy. As part of the comprehensive evaluation, institutions shall publicize the forthcoming evaluation in accordance with established Commission procedures regarding content, dissemination, and timing.

Explanation of this Requirement

The Commission seeks public comments on institutions as part of its comprehensive evaluations and Quality Checkup Visits. The institution is responsible for publishing notice about the visit to its constituents and instructing constituents that they can send comments to the Commission. (See the Commission's Procedure on Third-Party Comments.) Commission staff will collect the comments and forward them to the leadership of the institution and the evaluation team. The comments are intended to encourage participation in the accreditation activity from multiple constituents and typically form only a basis for further inquiry about appropriate issues from the team. Decisions made by the team should rest on information gained from the visit itself. 🌿

Information on Contractual and Consortial Arrangements

Contractual Arrangements

Commission Policy 3.2(a).10 requires that an accredited or candidate institution notify the Commission and seek prior approval if the institution initiates a contractual arrangement in which the institution outsources some portion of its educational programs to:

- (1) an unaccredited institution,
- (2) an institution that is not accredited by an accreditor recognized by the U.S. Department of Education, or
- (3) a corporation or other entity.

An institution that intends to enter into a contract with one of the above types of organizations for any goods or services related to outsourcing academic program(s) or that has entered into such an arrangement since July 1, 2010, should complete a screening form so that the Commission can determine whether the contractual arrangement requires Commission approval. The screening form is available on the Commission's Web site. If the contractual arrangement involves a clinical component, the institution should complete the screening form so the Commission can determine whether further approval is needed.

Types of Contractual Arrangements Excluded from Seeking Commission Approval

The institution should not complete the screening form if any of the following apply:

- All of the contractual partners providing goods or services related to academic programs are institutions accredited by agencies recognized by the U. S. Department of Education. Such arrangements may require prior approval as a consortial rather than a contractual arrangement. Refer to the Consortial Arrangements Application (www.ncahlc.org).
- The contract is for goods and services, such as food services and parking lot management, that support the college but are unrelated to the provision of academic programs (degree programs and certificate programs that carry college credit).
- The accredited or candidate institution offers the goods or services to another party. Note that if the other party is an accredited or candidate for accreditation with HLC, that party may need to seek approval for the arrangement.
- The contractual partner provides an internship that does not include a formal instructional component.
- The contractual partner provides only books or supplies supporting the academic program or equipment or a platform for Internet-based instruction.
- The contract between the contractual partner and the institution provides only for the articulation or transfer of courses that are transcribed as transfer credit on the students' transcripts and not the outsourcing of courses carrying academic credit from the institution.

Consortial Arrangements

Higher Learning Commission (HLC) policies outline when institutions need to notify the Commission about consortial arrangements and when they need to seek approval of these arrangements. (See policy 3.2(a) and page two of this document.)

Characteristics of Consortial Arrangements

A consortial arrangement is one in which an HLC-accredited institution develops an agreement with an institution or group of institutions, i.e., the consortial party(ies), through which the consortial party(ies) agree to provide some portion of one or more educational programs offered by the HLC-accredited institution. The agreement may be a written contract or letter of agreement or other document or it may be an oral agreement between the parties.

To be considered a consortium, the party(ies) must be two or more institutions accredited by agencies recognized by the U.S. Department of Education. (See the previous section on Contractual Arrangements for agreements with organizations that do not meet this definition. Foreign institutions are typically not accredited by an accrediting agency recognized by the U.S. Department of Education even though such institutions often have arrangements with other institutions that are accredited by such agencies. Therefore, they are considered contractual parties.)

The consortial arrangement may affect one or more Title IV-Eligible certificate or degree programs. The consortial party provides some portion of the educational program, which may include developing syllabi or courseware, providing academic resources, developing instructional design, or delivering instruction face-to-face or through a platform provided by the consortial party.

Arrangements that require Commission notification or approval do not include:

- Articulation agreements through which the institution agrees to admit students and accept transfer credits previously earned or completed by those students with the other party to the articulation agreement, 2+2, clinical or internship arrangements unless the other party provides instruction.
- Contracts that are solely for a delivery platform and do not include courseware, academic content, etc.

Reporting and Seeking Approval of Consortial Arrangements

Institutions have a responsibility to ensure that the Commission is properly informed about and has approved consortial arrangements. The Commission understands the percentages that determine whether an institution must notify or seek approval from the Commission for a consortial arrangement to mean the following:

- If a student can access 50% or more of the credits in a degree or certificate program from consortia institutions versus the institution that enrolls the student and awards the degree, the consortial arrangement must have prior approval from the Commission.
- If a student can access 25% - 49% of the credits in a degree or certificate program from consortia institutions versus the institution that enrolls the student and awards the degree, the institution must notify the Commission of the consortial arrangement.

Changes identified as requiring Commission notification are included in the institution's accreditation provided that the institution provides timely notification to the Commission through the Annual Institutional Data Update and other data reporting instruments established by the Commission according to a schedule established by the Commission.

When to Use the Substantive Change Application Form for Consortial Arrangements

Consortial arrangements identified as requiring prior Commission approval prior to implementation shall be included in the institution's accreditation only after the Commission has reviewed the change and has formally acted to approve the change. The institution initiates its change request using the Change Application Form for Consortial Arrangements provided on the Commission's Web site.

If all of the institutions participating in the consortium are accredited by the Higher Learning Commission, the institutions are invited to submit a consolidated application form. Each institution in the arrangement should specify percentage of the credits it offers with respect to each degree program available through the consortial relationship. Those institutions requiring approval will receive formal approval whereas those institutions needing to notify the Commission will have satisfied their obligation.❁
